
Ph.D. programme

Research in Kinanthropology deals with the complex effects of intentional and spontaneous physical activity on the development of human personality in the bio-psycho-social context and conditions of the environment of physical education and sport, physiotherapy, health physical education, including their effective management. Kinanthropology, therefore, represents an interdisciplinary field requiring variability of the approach to solving research problems, in which a systemic approach with an accent on methodology has long been emphasized.

See more

- Information about admission process
- Study Rules
- Kinanthropology Ph.D. Study
- Forms for Download
- Ph.D. Thesis Defence

Contact:

Kateřina Wojasov
katerina.wojasova@ftvs.cuni.cz
Tel.: +420 220 172 007
Mob. +420 774 272 772